

KILLED ON ENGINE.

Young Man Shot While Returning to Jackson—Negroes Driven From Train.

STRIKE ON RAILROAD SERIOUS

Fish Plate Between Rails of Switch Causes Two Wrecks—Further Trouble Feared—State Militia Asked for to Protect Property

Jackson, Tenn., May 11.—The strike on the Mobile and Ohio railroad, now in this city, is assuming alarming proportions. One man killed, two trains wrecked and business badly tied up is the result of the due in Jackson. Chief of Police Gaston and his force were called to the union station early in the day by the officials of the road on account of a wreck here, alleged to be the work of the strikers. A fish plate had been laid between the rails of a switch and an engine was derailed. The engine was replaced on the rails and returned to the shops and when it returned to carry the train north the switch was thrown and another delay occurred.

Will Yarbrough, a young man, was shot and killed on the tender of his engine. Yarbrough boarded the train Saturday afternoon at Bethel Springs, made a trip to Oklona, Miss., as a brakeman, and returned to Jackson. The train on which he was killed was the same as that manned by Captain Pringle, a bridge foreman, and his crew of negroes. South of Jackson the negroes were driven from the train, and at Bethel Yarbrough joined Pringle's train. The strikers say they know nothing of the identity of the man or men who did the shooting.

The railroad property is being guarded and further trouble is feared. At the request of the strikers the Mobile and Ohio Railroad company has prepared a writ of injunction, which will be filed in the federal court, asking that the state militia be ordered to Jackson at once to protect the rights and property of the company.

The report that the engineers and firemen would join the strikers is said to be unfounded.

Meridian, Miss., May 11.—The Mobile and Ohio strike situation remains about the same in this city, except that the company succeeded in getting one train out and one in during the day with non-union conductors and brakemen. Superintendent Alexander said he expects to have practically all places of strikers on his division filled by noon and that all traffic will be resumed. Quite a number of non-union men have arrived here from Chicago. They are corralled in cars in the yards, and all strikers are warned to stay out of the yards and not to interfere. No disturbances have occurred here and none is expected. The strikers are conducting themselves in a most orderly way.

Mobile, Ala., May 11.—The second day of the strike of the trainmen on the Mobile and Ohio was a quiet one here. The road is completely tied up. The passenger trains all pulled out on time, however, being run by clerks in the offices and officials of the road. Expert Agent Flippin and several of the clerks in the freight office here ran switching cars in the yards all day and have made some progress. Preparations are being made for trouble. Deputy sheriffs are in charge of the yards at Whistler. No peace overtures have been made by either side.

PASSENGER TRAIN IS DERAILLED

Engineer Killed and Number Injured—No Cause Assigned.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 11.—A Southern railway passenger train, bound for Asheville, N. C., jumped the track one mile west of White Pine, Tenn. This train consisted of engine, combination express and mail car, baggage car, two day coaches and two sleepers. All were derailed except the sleepers. Engineer Robert B. Holoman, of Knoxville, was caught beneath his engine and crushed to death.

The badly injured are: Ed Brasel, messenger, and Ben Whiteside, baggagemaster, Knoxville; F. P. Abernathy, postal clerk, and R. E. L. Mountney, postal clerk, Salisbury, N. C.; Sylvia Smith, colored passenger, White Pine, Tenn.; Horace Webb, colored, passenger, Knoxville, Tenn.

The train was running 30 miles an hour when the accident occurred. No cause can be assigned for it. The rails were torn up for 200 feet and a delay of over six hours followed.

Fatal Street Car Collision.

Cleveland, May 11.—One man was killed, another fatally crushed and a third badly hurt as the result of a street car collision on the road to Euclid beach. The dead man's name is Galvin and his home is in Cleveland. The fatally injured is a young man named McSweeney, 20 years old, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The third injured person is Frank Riley, 17 years old, also of Brooklyn. The trio were riding on the rear of a crowded car when an on-coming car crashed into their footboard. Galvin's head was crushed to pulp, McSweeney was thrown under the car, which ran over his left leg, crushing it, and Riley is seriously hurt internally. The two injured men are at Charity hospital.

MAN AND WIFE DIE FROM BURNS

Woman Smells Gas in House and a Lighted Match Sets Building on Fire.

Buffalo, May 11.—Norman M. Blasdell, of North Collins, a former assemblyman, after whom the town of Blasdell, N. Y., is named, and his wife were so badly burned in a fire which started from an explosion and which destroyed their home that they died a few hours later. An adopted son, who was the only other occupant of the house at the time of the explosion, was slightly burned.

Mrs. Blasdell was conscious for some time before her death and from her it was learned how the explosion occurred. Awakened by a strong smell of gas, she began an investigation. When she reached the hall she struck a match and instantly there was a terrific explosion. Fire broke out in half a dozen places and the whole house was soon in flames. The adopted son, who slept in a remote part of the house, rushed to his foster mother's rescue and succeeded in smothering the flames that enveloped her. Mrs. Blasdell walked out as far as the street, where she fell unconscious.

Mrs. Blasdell, who had been awakened by the explosion, endeavored to reach the stairway, but found himself cut off by the flames. With his night clothing ablaze he was forced to jump from an upper window. The shock of the fall and the severe burns resulted in his death. Mrs. Blasdell died at the home of a relative.

Bowen Leaves Washington.

Washington, May 11.—Mr. Bowen left for New York and on Saturday will sail for Caracas. Secretary L. M. Conrad congratulated Mr. Bowen on the successful completion of his mission and his splendid work at Washington. Notes of congratulation were also exchanged between Mr. Bowen and the Italian, British and German ambassadors. It is understood that while Mr. Bowen will remain accredited as minister to Venezuela for the present, it is the intention of the administration on the completion of his services at The Hague, where he goes in September as one of the associated counsel for the peace powers, to recognize his work by promoting him to a considerably more important diplomatic post.

Turkish Government Apologizes.

Constantinople, May 11.—It is de- sired here that the powers have lodged claims for damages resulting from the Salonica outrages. The Turkish government has apologized to the Bulgarian diplomatic agent here for the demilitary visits made by the police of Constantinople last week, when about 60 Bulgarians were arrested and when the papers of the secretary of the Bulgarian diplomatic agency were seized at his residence. The agent threatened to leave Constantinople unless satisfaction for this action was given. The statement that the portuguese requested Austria and Italy to withdraw their warships from Salonica has been confirmed.

Disappointed Sports.

Scranton, Pa., May 11.—One thousand sports from Wilkesbarre, Scranton and Pittston went on a Lehigh Valley special to the isolated Selby's Grove, Ransom township, to attend an ostensible clam bake, but in reality to witness a 24-round fight between Danny Dougherty, of Philadelphia, and Joe Quigly, of Pittston. The Christian Endeavor union of Scranton, however, got word of the affair and served notice on Sheriff Schad to prevent it. He arrived on the scene as the principals were getting ready to enter the ring. The fight was called off and the sports were away disgusted.

Plague Closes Peru.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 11.—Mayallo and Pisco, Peru, have been officially declared infected with the bubonic plague. The banks and business houses of Guayaquil are subscribing funds for the purpose of cleaning the city. The Cosmos, the steamers Herodotus and Sesostris, from southern ports, will be refused admittance here. Ecuadorian troops have been stationed on the Peruvian frontier to stop communication. The board of health at Peru, Peru, has closed that port to vessels from Callao.

Celebrating Jubilee.

Indianapolis, May 11.—The silver jubilee commemorating the 25th anniversary of the consecration of Francis Silas Chafford as Roman Catholic bishop of Indianapolis, began with a welcoming mass meeting by the Catholic laity of the city. The event will bring the most notable gathering of Catholic clergy ever gathered here. Four thousand people crowded Tomlinson hall when the exercises opened. The formal exercises will take place Tuesday.

Dynamite Mystery Still Unsolved.

New York, May 11.—The police so far have failed to solve the mystery surrounding the leaving of a box of dynamite on the Cunard line dock Saturday. There is a diversion of opinion among the officials as to whether the matter was intended to be a hoax or not, but all agree that the possibilities of a great explosion and a great loss of life were many.

Eighth Victim of Typhoid.

Stanford University, Calif., May 11.—Foster Ely Brackett, of Washington, a senior, died of typhoid fever. Funeral services were held in the Memorial church and the body was sent to his home in Washington. Brackett's death is the eighth resulting from the epidemic. Several more deaths among those ill are expected.

Mrs. Elizabeth Oppenauer has returned to her home in Connellsville after an extended visit with her son John, at Milwaukee, Wis.

John Giffey is going to Ohio this week in the interests of the waterworks franchise which he is securing in a town in the Mahoning valley. He will be gone for several days.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new street car connecting bridge between Scottdale and Ecorse. The steel structure is being placed rapidly. The bridge will have a foot passenger walk on one side, but no wagon road. The conductors and motormen of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Connellsville railway have donned their new summer uniforms. The letters "P. M. & C." are worked on the collars in silver cord. The summer caps are much lighter than the winter regulation.

The Pennsylvania railroad is erecting a new roundhouse at Rainey Junction on this side of Uniontown. The traffic on the Klondike has increased so that considerable motive power is needed there, and the new roundhouse is being put up to take care of it.

New pens and an incline for the unloading and loading of stock have been built adjacent to the Pennsylvania freight station. Heavier shipments of stock to local butchers makes this improvement necessary. Every week local butchers go to the East Liberty market and purchase Western cattle. (Sometimes more than two carloads are shipped here in one day.)

Bernard O'Connor is moving his family this week to Ambridge, near Economy, on the Fort Wayne & Chicago railroad. He has extensive street paving and curbing contracts there, and the work will take a considerable amount of his time. He is not moving the furniture from his new residence on First street, New Haven, and expects to make this his permanent home.

CONTAGION ON RECEIVING SHIPS

Cerebro-Spinal Meningitis Kills Three Recruits and Five More Have Disease.

Philadelphia, May 11.—The Press says:

Deadly cerebro-spinal meningitis, popularly known as "spotted fever," and one of the hardest contagious diseases to combat, has broken out in the ranks of the 1,200 men aboard the receiving ships Minneapolis and Puritan, at League Island navy yard.

Already it has killed three young recruits, while five more victims are hovering between life and death. Grave fears prevail that others among the embryo bluejackets who worked and slept with the stricken may fall in its clutches.

This prospect has alarmed the officers at the yard to such an extent that an heroic effort will be made to prevent a spread of the disease, not only by constantly watching the men but by removing the men entirely from the two receiving ships.

The work of raising 36 tents will be started and as soon as the canvas shelters are in place the 1,200 young tar will be put out to camp, giving them plenty of fresh air and more room for exercise, which it is thought will materially lessen the chance for further incubation of the disease.

When the men leave the Minneapolis and Puritan both ships will be subjected to a thorough fumigation.

Restaurants Will Open.

Omaha, Neb., May 11.—Several of the large restaurants, which have been closed during the past week on account of the strike of restaurant employees, are preparing to open. The proprietors say they have secured sufficient help to start their business. One large delivery company brought 125 strike breakers to the city. They were marched to the company's stable under protection of deputy sheriffs. Sixty of them said they had been hired for railroad work and at once deserted. Several others were placed under arrest as vagrants. Delivery companies say they will start 100 additional wagons.

Break in Ranks of Laundrymen.

Chicago, May 11.—All efforts to reach a settlement of the laundry strike at a meeting between the special committee of the employees and the employers failed of results and a disruption of the ranks of the employers' association is expected. The Evanston laundrymen, who announced they would open their laundries Monday, could not be induced by the association. All attended the meeting and a strong effort was exerted to induce them to stand by the association, but in vain, and the Evanston men left the meeting determined to open for business.

Firm Attitude of Sheriff Mason Keeps Mob From Attack on Jail.

FURTHER TROUBLE IS FEARED

And Saloons Have Been Closed by Mayor—Three Negroes, Accused of Murder of Otto Mischke, Are Locked In Norwalk Jail.

Fremont, O., May 11.— Mob violence, which was threatened in this city Saturday night as the result of the alleged killing of Otto Mischke by one of three negroes, has subsided. The three negroes who are charged with the crime are securely locked in the county jail at Norwalk.

From 1 until 4 o'clock Sunday morning the jail building was surrounded by an angry crowd calling upon Sheriff Mason to deliver the prisoners. For an hour or more the sheriff stood on the front steps of his residence and admonished the threatening crowd to be careful and quiet and not commit an act that would forever shame Fremont in the eyes of the world. Sheriff Mason said he had taken an oath to do his official duty, and do it he would, and he said he would shoot the first man who made an attempt to break down the jail door and enter the building.

For fear of further trouble Mayor Engler has ordered every saloon in the city closed.

The negroes gave their names as Wheeler Kimbro, Walter Stratton and Lorenz Morath. Kimbro and Stratton had loaded revolvers in their possession.

The story of the tragedy is to the effect that the negroes, who were in the street, were offended at a question of Mrs. Albert Gommel as to who they were. Mrs. Gommel was on her way home with her husband and children. Mischke, the victim of the bullet, was living at the Gommel house, which was in the vicinity of the affair, and when he came to the door to see what the loud talk was about a bullet struck him in the stomach, inflicting a fatal wound.

OIL LAMP EXPLODES FATALLY

Mother and Daughter Burned to Death and Little Son in Serious Condition.

Frankfort, Ind., May 11.—Mrs. N. A. Long and her 5-year-old daughter are dead and a 3-year-old son is perhaps fatally burned as the result of an oil lamp explosion.

Mrs. Long and her two children were sleeping in their home when a small oil lamp exploded. The oil was thrown over Mrs. Long, but she frantically rushed to the other bed to rescue the children. Instantly she was enveloped in flames, and as she seized the children their night robes took fire and all three were afame. The mother then attempted to get out of the house, but was overcome and fell in an adjoining room. Passersby discovered the fire and burst in the doors. They found all three frightfully burned. The mother died at noon and the daughter at 4 o'clock. The little boy is in a very serious condition, but may recover. Mrs. Long was the wife of a prominent business man. There was but little damage to the house.

Vote of Great Northern Trainmen.
St. Paul, May 11—While the vote of the trainmen on the Great Northern system is understood to have almost unanimously been in favor of sustaining the position of the grand officers and general committee upon the double-headed question, the indications are that there will not be a strike. After the conference the men held a meeting to discuss the proposals made and to reach an agreement if possible. Nothing definite was accomplished, however, and another meeting will be held.

YOUNG MEN TO THE FRONT.

The McKeesport News, commenting on the fact that some of the Trustees of the Carnegie Library at that place threaten to resign unless there is a better attendance at the board meetings, suggests that a different method be employed in making up boards of management for public or semi-public institutions.

"There are," says The News, "quite a large number of young men in the city who are thoroughly qualified to look after the interests of a library or other establishment requiring knowledge of business combined with some understanding of the literary world. These men would consider the appointment as a member of the board of trustees of a library of sufficient importance in their career to warrant their giving whatever time would be necessary to carry on the business as it should be. At the same time it would encourage a class of men who certainly stand in need of all the encouragement they can get. After a man has reached the zenith of his career positions that call for a considerable amount of time without giving material returns are not so attractive as they would have been to him a decade or two ago."

There is much force in what The News says. The young men should be given an opportunity, it is not wise though, to leave them in entire control of the ship. The youngsters can furnish the energy, but there ought to be a few old sailors aboard by way of ballast.

THE BOOM FOR GROVER.

The boom for Grover Cleveland for a third term, started at St. Louis Exposition, has attracted the widest attention. In spite of the unwritten law against a third term, its advocates have grown more and more insistent. Bryan scorns the idea and declares that it is out of the question.

It is out of the question. Cleveland will hardly be nominated by the Democratic National Convention, and certainly would not be elected if he were a candidate. We do not believe that he would accept the Democratic nomination if tendered him.

But the boom for Grover is significant. It means that the Democratic party is returning to the ancient faith after seven years of lean and hungry feeding on the husks of Free Silver, Populism and several assortments of Socialism.

The Democratic caravan has been deep; its repentence and atonement will have to be sincere and long continued before the public will incline again to entrust it with control of the country.

Teddy seems to rather enjoy having Congress on his hands.

The Uniontown Genius alleges that it is the custom of the Republican State Committee to send to Republican candidates for the Legislature $500 ostensibly toward their campaign expenses, but that "the real purpose is to buy the candidate in the event of his election. This explains why the Satus-Grady bill went through the Legislature so easily."

England has a Monroe doctrine of her own. It covers Manchuria and has been enunciated for the benefit of Russia. Uncle Sam is impressing his diplomacy upon the world.

Kentucky has added to its list of famous attributes. It produces not only fine whiskey, fast horses and pretty women, but also bad men. The acquisition is not a creditable one. Bloodshed in a fair fight is deplorable, but assassination is abominable.

Colonel William Jennings Bryan, agriculturist, attended the Good Roads Convention, but he failed to get any advice as to how a Democratic road to success could be constructed on the arbitrary grade of 16 to 1.

The Central District & Printing Telegraph Company has commenced the work of putting its wires underground in Pittsburg. The same company offered to do the same thing in Connellsville, but the Democratic Town Council would not permit it. This is the Party of Progress our esteemed contemporary The News is so fond of telling us about.

The Uniontown papers are all puffed up on the fact that the district headquarters have been established there, Connellsville is not envious. We are glad to be rid of the Octopus.

Other Editorial Opinions.

The Washington Reporter makes a strong plea for cleaner alleys and back yards, and suggests that the best remedy would be a garbage furnace for the town.

The McKeesport Times tells us that what McKeesport needs is more and better business houses in the downtown district.

TRUSTS.

A Well Known Political Economist Argues They Are a Blessing. Are trusts a bane or blessing? Is being widely discussed by political economists in both continents. Ex-Director of the Census Merriam ought to be well posted on the subject as to their effect on the commercial interests of this country. The following is an excerpt from a recent article written him for a magazine:

I cannot help coming to the conclusion that the concentration in few hands of so large a number of the industrial concerns throughout the country must have an effect like that on a ship, to steady the situation: that the evolution which has gone on so constantly during the last half dozen years, by which all sorts of productive institutions have been welded, has resulted in placing the management of these large concerns in the hands of men of the highest experience and of great financial strength.

This is emphasized by the further fact that certain industries like the iron and steel, controlled as they are by a comparatively few men owning the raw material and transportation facilities, and finally producing the manufactured article, must be in a better position to restrict the output and adjust supply to demand with less of loss than could possibly be expected where the constituent companies resolved into original ownership, with consequent competition and loss of administration.

In other words, is it not a fact that the steel industry, the sugar industry, the combinations producing various articles of necessity, will be enabled to adjust the affairs of their corporations to changing conditions, and thus put off or greatly mitigate the era of depression which has been so common in our country as far back as 1877?

THE NEW RULES

Governing Republican Primaries, Etc., of Fayette County.

Following are the rules adopted by the county convention held at Uniontown June 21, 1888, and amended by the convention of May 26, 1892, for the government of the Republican party of Fayette county, Pa.

1. The county committee shall consist of two persons from each election district to be chosen at the primary election for delegates to the county convention for nominating candidates for county offices, and of a chairman and secretary to be selected by the committee, either from or without their own number.

2. The county committee shall meet for organization on the day fixed for the county convention, and shall convene at other times after at least ten days' notice by the chairman mailed to each member or published for two weeks in the Republican newspapers of the county. It shall also determine the time for holding the primary election and the county convention and give notice thereof by publication in the Republican papers of the county for at least four successive weeks.

3. The delegates to the county convention shall be apportioned among the several election districts on the basis of the Republican vote cast in each district at the last general election. Every district having fifty or less Republican votes shall be entitled to one delegate and for every additional fifty votes or fraction thereof equal to or greater than one-half, the district shall have an additional delegate. The said apportionment shall be made by the county committee at its meeting to fix the time for holding the county convention, and shall be published with call for said convention.

4. The primary election for delegates to the county convention shall be held at the places for holding the general election in the several election districts and between the hours of 2 and 7 P. M. on the day named in the call for the county committee. The members of the Republican party who shall at the next ensuing general election be qualified to vote shall vote at said primary election, and no person shall be entitled to vote save only in the election district where he resides.

5. The names of all delegates and committee men and of all candidates to be voted for shall be on a single ballot, and the voter shall erase the names of all candidates but those of the persons for whom he desires to cast his ballot. No voter, however, shall cast his ballot for more candidates than are to be nominated for any office than are to be nominated for said office, and all irregular ballots shall be rejected.

The delegates to the county convention shall be required to cast their votes for the candidates receiving the highest vote at the primary in their district and so continue to vote as long as said candidates are before the convention, in order, however, to be taken, the candidates having the lowest number of delegates shall be dropped and after five more ballots are taken, if no nomination is made, the next lowest name shall be dropped, and so on until a nomination is made.

6. The primary elections shall be conducted in each election district by a board consisting of one judge and two inspectors, or clerks, to be selected as follows: When the judge of the regular election board is a Republican he shall be ex-officio the judge of the primary election board, and the Republican inspector and clerk of the regular election board shall be the inspectors of the primary election board; when the judge of the regular election board is not a Republican the Republican inspector of such regular election board shall be the judge and his clerk shall be the inspector of the primary election board, and they two shall choose the other inspector; and when there are no Republicans on the regular election board of any district the county committee shall appoint the primary election board for such district. In case of the absence of one member of the board the two members present shall appoint; when two are absent the one member present shall appoint one and they two shall appoint the third; and when all are absent the assembled voters shall elect. Said board shall keep a list of the persons voting, and when the polls are closed, and not before, make a tally of the votes cast for each person voted for, and give certificates of election to the committeemen and delegates elected; the certificates to the delegates to state who have received the first and second instructions of the district for each office voted for; the list of voters and tally list shall be given to the delegates elected, who shall lay said lists and the certificates of election before the county convention.

7. When from any cause a vacancy shall occur after the adjournment of the county convention on the Republican ticket to be voted for at the next general election, the county committee, at meeting to be called for the purpose and which purpose shall be stated in the call, shall select a candidate to fill the vacancy.

8. The chairman of the county committee shall call the committee together at any time upon the request of a majority of the executive committee; and if the chairman should refuse, after such request, to issue a call for such meeting, it shall then be the duty of the secretary or of said executive committee to issue said call.

9. No substitute for a delegate to the county convention or a member of the county committee occurring by death, removal or otherwise, the same shall be filled by the committee at a regular meeting, with a Republican voter of the district where the vacancy exists, who shall serve until the next election of committee men.

10. The county convention shall be called to order by the chairman of the county committee, the list of delegates called by the secretary, and if there be any contested seats they shall be referred to a committee on credentials. Fraud of any kind shall exclude delegates from seats in the convention.

11. The chairman and secretary of the county committee, with seven others who may or may not be members of the committee to be selected and announced by the chairman, shall constitute an executive committee for the ensuing general campaign.

12. Delegates to the State convention shall be elected by the county convention.

13. For the purpose of raising funds for defraying the necessary expenses of conducting the primary, all persons who may announce themselves as candidates shall pay to the county chairman announcement fees as follows: Post judge, $100; congress, $75; state, $50; senator, $30; sheriff, $20; protonotary, $20; register and recorder, $20; treasurer, $20; representative, $20; commissioner, $15; coroner, $25; poor director, $10; surveyor, $10; auditor, $10; jury commissioner, $10; delegate to state convention, $5; delegate to national convention, $10.

Until such fee is paid, no candidate's announcement shall be authorized by the chairman nor shall his name be printed on the primary election ballot or presented to the county convention for nomination, and before the announcement of any candidate is received, he shall subscribe to a copy of these rules, agreeing to be governed by them. All announcements must be made at least 15 days before the primary, except in case of vacancy existing before the 15 day limit and before the convention.

14. The candidate receiving the endorsement of the county convention for congress or state senate shall have the power to choose his own conferees, and in case no candidate is announced for congress or state senate under the rules, the conferees shall be announced and voted for as are candidates for other offices.

15. In case any delegate is absent from the convention when his name is called, or is present and should refuse to vote, or in case any delegate should cast his vote in violation of his instructions, the chairman of the convention shall order such votes to be recorded and counted in accordance with the instructions of the district as shown by the returns of the primary election board.

16. These rules and regulations may be amended by a two-thirds vote of the county convention after four weeks' published notice of such proposed amendment.

17. The strict observance of these rules and regulations is enjoined upon all committees, boards of election and the Republican voters.

MERCANTILE TAX COMING SLOW

Great Many Assyrians Pay Tax in Bulk for Men and Women They Have Hired to Work for Them—Deeds Entered for Record.

Uniontown, May 11.—Attorney Edward Campbell has entered an action in trespass on behalf of Joseph S. Ellis, William Britton, W. G. Wood and Robert F. Crawford, to recover $2500 from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The plaintiffs are all well known business men from Brownsville and vicinity, and are partners in the cattle business. Much of their time is devoted to buying stock cattle in the Western markets, pasturing them on their lands near Brownsville and then selling to local butchers when in proper condition. In September, 1902, they bought three carloads of cattle in Omaha and Chicago and had them shipped to Brownsville over the backs of the defendant company. Through a blunder on the part of some official, one of the cars was taken through to Philadelphia, while the others were also lost track of for several days. When they were finally delivered to Brownsville, it is alleged that the cattle were in such a condition that all those in one of the cars had to be shot except one, and it died shortly after. All the others were in such a starved and distressed condition that but little good was derived from them. Negligence and carelessness on the part of the company is charged in their effort to collect the amount stated. A writ was issued and made returnable the first Monday of June court.

County Treasurer R. A. McClean reports that the mercantile tax is coming in very slow this year. As yet, less than 300 persons have taken out their license for the next year, which begins July 1. He says there are at least 1000 persons in the county who should pay tax and he will make a determined effort to collect for the county all that is rightfully due. The fees thus derived add materially to the revenue of the county. People of a hoarding nature, who attempt to do business in the county, are being watched closely. Notice was sent to all constables to look after this class and if they had no license, to bring prosecution. Most of this class is composed of Assyrian and other foreign peddlers, who float from place to place. Some have already been arrested, while many others have come up and paid the $10.25 necessary to procure a license. One foreigner came up from Brownsville last week and paid for ten licenses, as he had a number of peddlers working for him.

Sheriff Frock would like to make the acquaintance of one R. M. Miller. Saturday morning he received a note signed by that name, saying that Bob Baley had shot Shorty Dyson at the new Brier Hill shaft, four miles from Brownsville. The note stated that Dyson had a broken leg and was in a serious condition, while the shooter was still at work. The sheriff drove out as rapidly as possible, but the officials of the company seemed to know nothing of the shooting. Neither did they know R. M. Miller. He hunted up Dyson and found that he had been shot slightly in the toe. Dyson said Baley had shot him, but it was purely an accident, as they were the best of friends. It is thought that someone, who had a grudge at Baley and wanted to get him in jail, wrote the note and then signed a fictitious name to it.

Deputy John A. Litman of the sheriff's office is suffering greatly with a sore hand. A few days ago he ran a big splinter into the fleshy part of the thumb. Although he had it taken out, the flesh seemed to be poisoned and the entire hand and arm are now badly swelled and as a consequence he suffers considerable pain. Joseph T. Crossland, the other deputy in the office, returned Saturday from a visit to his son, Richard, who is a druggist in Dickson Run. Dick is well known and his many friends will be glad to know that he is doing a good business in the Buckeye State.

The next session of court will be held next Saturday, May 16.

SPENDS QUIET SUNDAY

Roosevelt Has Restful Day.
Party Enjoys Ride Along Sea.

ATTENDS CHURCH IN AFTERNOON

Two Hours Spent in Strolling About Grounds—Evening Passed Quietly at Hotel—Journey Northward Begins at 8 O'Clock.

Hotel Del Monte, Cal., May 11.—President Roosevelt spent one of the most restful Sundays he has had since his trip began. In one of the most beautiful spots in California, two miles from the nearest city, surrounded by curious crowds, he had a chance to thoroughly rest and prepare for the coming week, which promises to be one of the busiest of his journey.

His train arrived here at midnight but he did not leave it until about 3 o'clock in the morning. At that time Colonel Ward and a detachment of the Fifteenth infantry, who are stationed at Fort Monterey, arrived at his car. After the president had greeted the colonel and his staff, he was escorted to the hotel, where he and his party had breakfast. At the conclusion of the meal, the president and a small party rode horseback over the famous 17-mile drive along the sea. Governor Pardee and some others of the party drove over the route in carriages. The weather was perfect and the trip was greatly enjoyed by the President, who was enthusiastic over the scenery.

In the afternoon he attended St. John's Chapel on the hotel grounds. The services were conducted by the Rev. Hobart Chetwood, the chaplain. At the conclusion of the services the President, Secretary of the Navy Moody, President Butler, of Columbia College, and President Wheeler, of the University of California, spent two hours strolling about the hotel grounds. The President passed the evening quietly at the hotel.

The start for the north begins at 8 o'clock. It was the intention to have the president review the troops stationed at Fort Monterey, but he declined to do so on Sunday. He requested Colonel Ward to do away with all the formality, as he desired to spend the day quietly.

CURTIS JETT IS LODGED IN JAIL

Alleged Assassin of Marcus Captured—Has Nothing to Say Regarding Tragedy.

Lexington, Ky., May 11.—The capture of Curtis Jett, charged with the assassination of J. B. Marcus, in Jackson, Monday, was accomplished without bloodshed early Sunday morning. He is now in the Clark county jail at Winchester.

In the jail Jett was communicating on all matters save the killing of Marcus.

"I'll get out of this all right," was the only statement he would make, which could be construed as a reference to the charge. He said he wanted to be tried in Breathitt county. He was bitter in denouncing his uncle, who had him arrested, and said that the score would be evened up when he was at liberty.

When asked about the statement that two men would testify that he killed Marcus he sneered and replied, "What's that to you?" To Sheriff McCord he was equally non-communicalive as to the Marcus tragedy. Jett is 28 years of age, athletic in build, with deep set, keen eyes and has bushy red hair. That he submitted to arrest was an agreeable surprise to the officers, who feared an encounter. He will be arraigned Tuesday and it is supposed he will be transferred to the Jackson district for trial.

Congress of Physicians and Surgeons.
Washington, May 11.—The sixth triennial session of the congress of American physicians and surgeons will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Sixteen societies and associations of specialists will be represented and most of the discoveries in medicine and surgery during the past three years will be discussed. Among matters that will be considered are the identification and isolation of the smallpox germ, the spread of malaria and similar diseases by the mosquito and the value of a number of new serums. Over 800 physicians are expected to be present and in addition there will be representation from the army and navy and the marine hospital service.

New Yards Opened.
Altoona, Pa., May 11.—The new classification yard built by the Pennsylvania Railroad company just outside the city limits is opened. It cost $1,500,000. In the receiving yard there are 12 tracks with a capacity of 100 cars each. The classification yard, where cars will be classified by gravity, has 37 tracks, each holding 90 cars.

Services in Memory of Talmage.
Harrisburg, May 11.—Special services in memory of Rev. Dr. T. Dewitt Talmage were held at Grace Methodist church, where the distinguished preacher and lecturer preached his last sermon. At the morning service a beautiful pulpit, erected as a memorial to Dr. Talmage, was unveiled.

PERSHING NOW AT MINDANAO

Transports Quarantined on Account of Cholera—Cashier of Ice Plant Arrested for Embezzlement.

Manila, May 11.—Albert Roberts, cashier of the government ice plant, has been arrested on the charge of embezzlement. His accounts have to a found to be $4,000 short.

The quarantining of transports bound for San Francisco has been resumed on account of cholera. The epidemic is making slight gains in Luzon.

Captain Pershing and his column have returned to Camp Vicars, Mindanao, from the expedition through the country east of Lake Lanao. The column experienced no opposition after the fighting at Taraca. The prisoners captured at Taraca took the oath of allegiance to the United States and were released. Among the Moros killed in the Taraca forts were nine datus and one sultan. The moral effect of this fight will be far-reaching and it is doubtful if there will be any further hostility in the Lake Lanao country.

Captain Pershing estimates the population of Taraca at 30,000 and that of the district at 100,000.

Four natives have been found guilty of the murder of three American marines at Olongapo, Subic bay, last September and have been sentenced to death.

DEAD OF THE DAY.

Prof. William B. Hall, Lancaster, Pa., May 11.—Prof. William B. Hall, a well-known musician, vocal instructor in the Columbia public schools and a member of the famous old Continental quartette, which years ago had national fame, died here, aged 75 years.

Mrs. William S. Jayne, Springfield, Ill., May 11.—Mrs. William S. Jayne died of heart disease, aged 49. She was a daughter of the late General John M. Palmer, who was governor of Illinois from 1863 to 1872 and United States senator from 1891 to 1897, and the candidate for president on the National Democratic ticket in 1896.

Mrs. Mary V. Baker, Leavenworth, Kan., May 11.—Mrs. Mary V. Baker, wife of former United States Senator Lucien Baker, died of apoplexy. She was 57 years old. Her husband, a son and a daughter, Mrs. C. H. T. Lowens, wife of an officer in the United States navy, now at San Juan, Porto Rico, survive her.

Fire Believed to Have Been of Incendiary Origin Sweeps the City.

Ottawa, Ont., May 11.—A fire suspected of being of incendiary origin destroyed hundreds of houses and millions of feet of lumber in this city. John White just released from the penitentiary after serving a term for arson, was caught near where the fire was discovered. He was taken to the police station and will be charged with starting the conflagration.

The fire originated in the lumber yard near the railroad, within a stone's throw of where the great Hull fire of April 26, 1900, was checked. Two hours before the principal fire started two smaller blazes were discovered and quickly extinguished in the lumber yards near the Canadian Pacific railway. It was 3:30 when the third was discovered. When the bridge arrived at the scene it was found that the water main had been damaged and no water could be obtained. When they did get water the fire was utterly beyond its control.

From the lumber yards the flames spread to a group of frame houses on the outskirts of the city, formerly known as Rochesterville but which is now united to the city. Every house in the little settlement was destroyed.

Another lumber yard in a thinly settled section northeast of Rochesterville was swept by the fire in an incredibly short time. This brought the fire to the more thickly settled sections.

Fifteen million feet of lumber were destroyed. The loss on the lumber will be about $300,000. The buildings burned were principally dwelling houses and stores. They were all built since the last great fire and were either solid brick or brick veneered. Mayor Cook said that there were from 500 to 600 families homeless, or about 3,000 individuals.

Royal Betrothal Announced.

London, May 11.—The betrothal of Prince Andreas, fourth son of King George of Greece, and Princess Alice, eldest daughter of Prince Louis of Battenberg, is officially confirmed. It was arranged at the time of King Edward's coronation. Prince Andreas arrived in London last Friday and visited their majesties at Buckingham Palace Sunday. Princess Alice was Queen Victoria's favorite great-grandchild.

CHAPTER XV.

Lorry recalled the conversation in the sickroom two weeks before and smiled ironically. The friendly girl left them at the door, and they passed out of the castle.

"I shall leave Edelweiss tomorrow," said one, more to himself than to his companion as they crossed the parlor. The other gave a start and did not look pleased. Then he instinctively glanced toward the castle.

"The princess is at the window!" he cried, catching Lorry's arm and pointing back. But the other refused to turn, walking on blindly. "You ought not to have acted like that, Grot," said Anguish a few moments later. "She saw me call your attention to her, and she saw you refuse to look back. I don't think that you should have hurt her." Lorry did not respond, and there was no word between them until they were outside the castle gates.

"You may leave tomorrow, Lorry, if you like, but I'm going to stay awhile," said Harry a trifle confusedly.

"Itaven't you had enough of the place?"

"I don't care a whoop for the place, You see, it's this way. I'm just as hard hit as you, and it is not a princess that I have to contend with."

"You mean that you are in love with the counts?"

"Emphatically."

"I'm sorry for you."

"Think she'll turn me down?"

"Unless you buy a title of one of these miserable counts or dukes."

"Oh, I'm not so sure about that. These counts and dukes come over and marry our American girls. I don't see why I can't step in and pick out a nice little countess if I want to."

"She is not as avorlous as the counts and dukes, I'll wager. See care nothing for your money."

"Well, she's as poor as a church mouse," said the other doggedly.

"The counts poor? How do you know?"

"I asked her one day, and she told me all about it," said Anguish.

CHAPTER XVI.

A CLASH AND ITS RESULT.

I FEEL like spending the rest of my days in that monastery up there," said Lorry after dinner that evening. They were strolling about the town. One was determined to leave the city, the other firm in his resolve to stay. The latter won the day when he shrewly if explosively reminded the former that it was their duty as men to stay and protect the princess from the machinations of Gabriel, that knave of purgatory. Lorry, at last recognizing the hopelessness of his suit, was ready to throw down his arms and abandon the field to superior odds. His presumption in aspiring for the hand of a princess began to touch his sense of humor, and he laughed, not very merrily, it is true, but long and loudly, at his folly. At first he cursed the world and every one in it, giving up, in despair, but later he cursed only himself. Yet as he despaired and scoffed he felt within him an ever present hope that luck might turn the tide of battle.

This puny ray grew perceptibly when Anguish brought him to feel that she needed his protection from the man who had once sought to despoil and who might reasonably be expected to persevere. He agreed to linger in Edelweiss, knowing that each day would add pain to the torture he was already suffering, his sole object being, he convinced himself, to frustrate Gabriel's evil plans.

Returning late in the evening from their stroll, they entered a cafe celebrated in Edelweiss. In all his life Lorry had never known the loneliness that makes death welcome.

The cafe was crowded with men and women. In a far corner sat a party of Aixhain nobles, their prince, a most democratic fellow, at the head of a long table. There were songs, jests and boisterous laughter. The celebration grew wilder, and Lorry and Anguish crossed the room and, taking seats at a table, ordered wine and cigars, both eager for a closer view of the prince. How Lorry loathed him!

Lorenz was a good looking young fellow, little more than a boy. His smooth face was flushed, and there was about him an air of dissipation that suggested depravity in its advanced stage. The face that might have been handsome was the reflection of a ruse, a dashing devilish. He was fair haired and tall, taller than his companions by half a head. With reckless abandon he drank and sang and jested, arrogant in his flighty merriment. His cohorts were not far behind him in riotous wit.

At length one of the revelers, speaking in German, called on Lorenz for a toast to the Princess Yvette, his promised bride. Without a moment's hesitation the prince sprang to his feet, held his glass aloft and cried:

"Here's to the fairest of the fair, sweet Yvette, so hard to win, too good to lose. She loves me, God bless her heart! And I love her, God bless my heart too! For each kiss from her wondrous lips I shall credit myself with a 1,000 gavros. That is the price of a kiss."

"I'll give 2,000!" roared one of the nobles, and there was a laugh in which the prince joined.

"Nay! I'll not sell them now. In after years, when she has grown old and her lips are parched and dry from the supplings I have had, I'll sell them all at a bargain. Alas, she has not yet kissed me!"

Lorry's heart bounded with joy, though his hands were clinched in rage.

"She will kiss me tomorrow. Tomorrow I shall taste what no other man has touched, what all men have coveted. And I'll be generous, gentlemen. She is so fair that your foul mouth would blight with but one curse upon her tender lips, and yet you shall not be deprived of bliss. I shall kiss her thrice for each of you. Let me count. Thrice eleven is thirty-three. Aye, thirty-three of my kisses shall be wasted for the sake of my friends. Lucky dogs! Drink to my princess!"

"Bravo!" cried the others. And the glasses were raised to lips.

A chair was overturned. The form of a man landed suddenly at the side of the prince, and a rough hand dashed the glass from his fingers, the contents spilling over his immaculate English evening dress.

"Don't you dare to drink that toast!" cried the voice in his astonished ear, a voice speaking in excited German. He whirled and saw a scowling face beside his own, a pair of gray eyes that flashed fire.

"What do you mean?" he demanded, anger replacing amazement. The other members of his party stood as if spellbound.

"I mean that you speak of the Princess of Graustark. Do you understand that, you miserable cu?"

"Oh!" screamed the prince, convulsed with rage, starting back and instinctively reaching for the sword he did not carry. "You shall pay for this! I will teach you to interfere!"

"I'll insult you more decidedly just to avoid misapprehension," snarled Lorry, swinging his big fist squarely upon the mouth of the prince. His royal highness landed under a table ten feet away.

Instantly the cafe was in an uproar. The stupefied Aixhain regaled their senses, and a general assault was made upon the hitherto American. He knocked another down. Harry Anguish coming to his assistance with several savage blows, after which the Graustark spectators and the waiters interfered. It was all over in an instant, yet a sensation that would live in the gossip of generations had been created. A prince of the realm had been brutally assaulted! Holding his jaw, Lorenz picked himself from the floor, several of his friends running to his aid. There was blood on his lips and chin; it trickled to his shirt front. For some moments he stood panting, glaring at Lorry's mocking face.

"I am Lorenz of Aixhain, sir," he said at last, his voice quivering with suppressed anger.

"It shall be a pleasure to kill you, Lorenz," observed his adversary, displaying his ignorance of lese majesty.

Anguish, pale and very much concerned, dragged him away, the prince leaving the cafe ahead of them followed by his chattering, cursing companions. Prince Gabriel was standing near the door as they passed out. He looked at the Americans sharply, and Anguish detected something like triumphant joy in his eyes.

"Good Lord, Lorry, this means a duel! Don't you know that?" cried he as they started upstairs.

"Of course I do, and I'm going to kill that villain too!" exclaimed Lorry loud enough to be heard from one end of the room to the other.

"This is horrible, horrible! Let me square it up some way if..." began the alarmed Anguish.

"Square it up! Look here, Harry Anguish. I am the one who will do the squaring. If he wants a duel, he can have it at any old time and in any style he desires."

"He may kill you!"

"Not while a just God rules over our destinies. I'll take my chances with pistols, and now let me tell you one thing, my boy: He'll never live to touch his lips to hers, nor will there be a royal wedding. She cannot marry a dead man." He was beside himself with excitement, and it was fully half an hour before Anguish could bring him to a sensible discussion of the affair. Gradually he became cool, and, the fever once gone, he did not lose his head again.

"Choose pistols at ten paces and at 8 tomorrow," he said ponchonally, as a rap at the door of their apartment announced the arrival of the prince's friend.

Anguish admitted two well dressed, black bearded men, both of whom had sat at the prince's table in the cafe.

They introduced themselves as the Duke of Mizrox and Colonel Atbawen. Their visit was brief, formal and conclusive.

"We understand that you are persons of rank in your own America?" said the Duke of Mizrox after a few moments.

"We are sons of business men," responded Mr. Anguish.

"Oh, well, I hardly know. But his highness is very willing to waive his rank and to grant you a meeting."

"I'm delighted by his highness' condescension, which I perfectly understand," observed Mr. Anguish. "Now what have we to settle, gentlemen?"

"The detail of weapons."

When Anguish announced that his principal chose pistols, a strange gleam crept into the eyes of the Aixhainians, and they seemed satisfied. Colonel Atbawen acted as interpreter during this short but very important interview, which was carried on in the Aixhain language. Lorry sat on the window sill steadfastly gazing into the night. The visitors departed soon, and it was understood that Prince Lorenz would come to meet Mr. Lorry at 8 o'clock on the next morning in the valley beyond the castle, two miles from town. There was no law prohibiting duels in Graustark.

"Well, you're in for it, old man," said Anguish gloomily, his chin in his hands as he fastened melancholy eyes upon his friend.

"Don't worry about me, Harry. There's only one way for this thing to happen."

"Coward me, Baron Dangloss! This is an outrage!" shouted Lorry.

"For heaven's sake, be calm! We are bffriendling you. When we reach the tower, where you will be safe, I shall explain."

"If we are caught?" cried Anguish. "Why, what have we done?"

Won and Lost At Marye's Hill

(Copyright, 1903, by G. L. Klemmer.)

EARLY on May 3, 1863, General Sedgwick took up the Fredericksburg end of the Chancellorsville fight by attacking Marye's hill. Sedgwick had been left in front of Fredericksburg, while Hooker marched around the flank of Lee to Chancellorsville, partly to mislead the enemy as to the aim of Hooker and also to guard Hooker's flank while he was crossing the Rappahannock. His corps was 20,000 strong, about equal in numbers to the column with which Stonewall Jackson had smashed Hooker's line the afternoon of May 2.

Sedgwick's sudden blow in an unexpected quarter caused Hooker to surmise that Lee had been alarmed by the crossing of the Federal army over the Rappahannock and moved his whole force away from Fredericksburg to meet the emergency. In that case Marye's hill was without defenders, and Sedgwick could no longer be of use in front of the town. He therefore ordered Sedgwick to march from Fredericksburg over Marye's hill to Chancellorsville. This would bring him in the rear of Lee, who, with the division of McLaw, lay between the two points and was hammering at Hooker's left flank, while Jackson attacked on the right. Hooker was himself between two fires, and if Sedgwick closed in as ordered Lee would be between two fires.

But Lee was in a position to fight two separate battles in a day with the same troops. When Sedgwick's men began to advance toward the height, the Confederate guns opened.

showing that if the Federals wanted Marye's hill they would have to fight for it. In order to prevent the Confederates from concentrating at the strongest points Sedgwick extended his four divisions along the base of the hill, facing the fortified front and both flanks. The divisions of Newton and Howe took the center to scale the heights, and Gibbon and Brooks formed on the right and left flank.

Marye's hill and the adjacent lines were held that day by Early's Confederate division of 9,000 men. Wilcox's brigade lay at Banks' ford, a few miles up the Rappahannock. Gibbon opened the attack by dashed past the left flank of Early, who sent Hays' brigade forward from the hill and called up Wilcox from the ford. Gibbon was checked. Sedgwick decided upon a direct assault of the hill and the stone wall which formed a bloody barrier when Burnside stormed it a few months before.

The post of honor in the charge fell by accident to the Sixth Maine regiment, a body of stalwart immortals from the banks of the Penobscot. The Sixth formed the right of Colonel Burnham's light division, which was deployed as the main line of battle. The wings were composed of two regiments in column, supported by two deployed in line. The right wing led up the plank road which crosses Marye's hill. This was a signal for the whole line, and the Confederate batteries on the crest took fire targets the solid ranks of the wings. Colonel Johns and Colonel Spear, leaders of the wings, were quickly cut down. Spear's column was swept away, but Johns', after being twice broken under the terrible fire, rallied and rushed on up the hill.

At the first rush the men of Maine broke loose from the commands on the right and left and stormed the stone wall where the fire was hottest. Over the wall they went, so rapidly that the Confederate reserves hadn't time to rally. The rifle pits and redoubts on the crest were carried by the bayonet. Major Joel A. Haycock of the Sixth fell while cheering his men at the first rifle pits. As they were about to mount them, sword in hand, four young captains were cut down at the

FOR JUNE BRIDES.

Novelties in Wedding Gowns—Gown Coats in the Trouser.

[Special Correspondence]

New York, May 5.—As long as the world turns around there will be marrying and giving in marriage, and June is just the month for that sort of thing. There is a really novel style in wedding gowns and not only new, but graceful and elegant. There is something quite out of the usual cut of ideas in the development of this gown, and so it is offered to the readers of this paper to look at and copy. If so be that they are to need it, and to admire if not

There is a slip of thin but crisp sat ete, with a deep umbilical décolleté, and at the bottom of the slip which serves to set out the outer dress at the hem. The dress itself is of crepe de chine or of silk muslin, as is preferred. The muslin is the lighter and gives a more ethereal effect, but the crepe is the richer, and it drapes better, quite a consideration

when one considers the peculiar man ner in which the material is draped across the shoulders and on the skirt.

At the waist line there are ticks to shape the skirt to the figure, and at the bottom there is a self ruching all around. Across the back of the skirt is a deep ruching which is not joined at the front, but cut shorter and draped up in two festoons on each side, the toes being held by wreaths of orange blossoms. The effort that has been made to displace orange blossoms has somehow failed, for there is a sentiment about the sweet and waxy flowers that nothing else can ever replace.

So orange blossoms are still in fashion for wedding gowns and wreaths, and long may they stay so.

The waist is made over a lining of the silk and is in a pronounced blouse shape, with a drooping belt made of fold of white satin. The upper portion is in a酵 shape, with the draping across, and at the junction the material is draped across the bust in a loosely twisted roll. On the left shoulder a small wreath and spray of orange blossoms is placed. The sleeves have two soft puffs and the rest is laid in bias folds around the arms.

The veil may be of tulle or of embroiled net. The worst about the old helford veil is that they are generally too short and too heavy to look really well over the dress, which needs

the airy lightness of tulle to give it just that evanescent and nebulous appearance. The orange blossoms may be made into a small wreath for the hair or put into the form of a small coconut or even a bunch, as will promote becoming. Silver and ivory mayer books may be carried, but flowers are really more appropriate, particularly when the dress is ornamente
